Leadership Confab Strengthens Others

Instant in leadership was this weekend to 50 BYU students the Summer Leadership Conference.

DOMESTIC LODGE in Brigham Young University was the setting for the conference. The lodge was applied to human interaction. "And when a converted, strengthen the theme of the lodge which was sponsored by the Leadership Committee.

OPENING THE CONFERENCE was held by Dr. Reed Bradford, the Sociology Department department kinds of love to the devotee of God, love of self, love of fellow human beings. "What should be the main goal of the conference?" Dr. Bradford asked. "To be able to seek to understand and live the words of the Savior and to help others do the same."

ADDRESSING the joy that comes to people through loving others and through loving God. Dr. Bradford pointed out the need for understanding and for joys that come from it.

THE FIRST was self actualization and was giving to a fellow member. Third and fourth were of divine influence in life and mortality.

He compared human lives to the rocks into a pool. "Very little ever touches that rock," he said, "but the ripples go out in all directions."

AFTER THE KEYNOTE session broke up into groups of people for sensitivity sessions.

Each group had a leader which described goals of gaining trust and sensitivity in the group with an emphasis on strengthening the members of the group.

LEADERS of the various groups which met for about eight hours Friday night and Saturday were Perry Cunningham, Julie Polly, Cheryl Coodie, Elaine Fish, and Bob Baird.

Saturday groups met in the mountain until rain sent them inside for their sessions.

PART OF THE SATURDAY schedule included diads where two people get together and react to one another and then to their feelings.

Also included in the Saturday afternoon activities were hiking in the woods and mountains around, tennis, nature walks, and riding the several lifts in the area.

AFTER DINER Robert A. Baird, spoke to the group on their place as part of a promise. He emphasized the importance of each individual.

The activities of the conference were concluded Saturday night with a hootenanny.

THE GROUPS however are to continue through the next five weeks, meeting once a week to keep on obtaining the goals started at the conference.

The members of the groups will strive to reach trust levels and learn to be sensitive to each of the members of the group so they can strengthen each other.

PRACTICALLY SPEAKING the theory behind sensitivity groups is to let people know how others react to each individual, to build his confidence in leadership, and to reach and be sensitive to other people. Diads are built on the same idea with interaction between two people emphasized.

GROUP THEORY also bases on the belief that a group of people working together has a better chance of reaching a solution to a problem than a group of people working alone.

Chairman of the Leadership Committee is Cheryl Coodie and chairmen for the Brigham Conference were Julie Polly, Evelyn Haslam, and Jerry McMullen.

WEDNESDAY DEVOTIONAL . . .

Elder Hunter Slated

Elder Milton R. Hunter, member of the First Council of Seventy of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, will speak at the Wednesday Young University devotion assembly Tuesday.

The assembly will be held at 7:30 p.m. in the main ballroom of the L. Wilkinson Center.

Elder Hunter has been a member of the First Council of the Seventy since 1945.

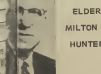

THE COUNCIL, composed of 70 members, has as its chief responsibility the extensive mission program of the Church. Prior to this position, Elder Hunter had taught in schools in the Western states for 10 years.

He obtained his B.A. and M.A. from BYU and his Ph.D. degree from the University of California.

ELDER HUNTER has written 22 books, principally on religious and historical subjects, and countless articles, reviews and papers. His writings have appeared in a number of authoritative and widely read historical journals, and his book, Utah in Her Western Setting, was used as a text book in Utah public schools for 17 years. He replaced that book with one on Utah history entitled The Utah Story. It is used at the present time as the textbook in all of the junior high schools in the state.

Several other of his books have been used as texts and study manuals within the Church, including the popular The Gospel Through The Ages. Among his latest books are the first two volumes in Archaeology and The Book of Mormon. The second volume is called Christ in Ancient America.

President Hunter has gone on ten trips throughout Mexico, five trips throughout Central America and made two tours of South America to study the numerous archaeological sites and gather evidences to sustain the Book of Mormon.

THE END OF THE LINE

Physical Plant employees have nearly reached the end of the line—in the road, that is. The painting of the last road stripes marks the preventive maintenance on the BYU periphery roads, which included the resurfacing of many of them. According to Physical Plant director, Sam Brewster, the small cracks which had begun to open in the spring weather were more easily and cheaply repaired now than if they had waited for the roads to break up completely.

Different Art Collection Scheduled For BYU

USAF Exhibit Due On Friday

An art exhibit that is different will go on display at Brigham Young University July 22-26 in the Wilkinson Center.

THIS EXHIBIT of original paintings by America's leading artists is from the Air Force Documentary Art Program. Pictured are scenes from Air Force life as these artists witnessed it in all parts of the globe.

"This is art everyone can appreciate, from the former World War II pilot to the youngster who thinks in terms of the latest jets and missiles," is typical of critics' comments.

IT IS OPEN to the public and there is no admission charge.

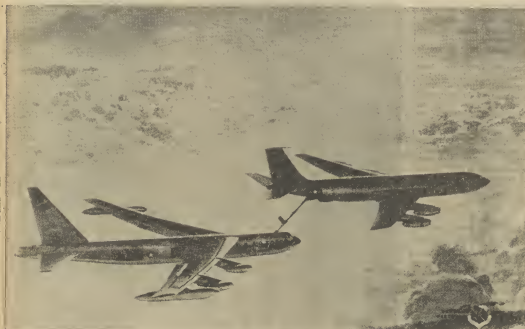

The selection of over 40 original paintings is being brought here by Detachment 1 of the Orientation Group, USAF, based at Norton AFB, California.

THE PAINTINGS in this display were donated by artists from the Societies of Illustrators of New York, Los Angeles and San Francisco. To record on canvas the contemporary life of the U.S. Air Force, they were flown to all parts of the world. Their impressions of what they saw and felt have been documented on over 750 paintings

The Air Force Art Collection, including 2500 paintings and drawings includes valuable historical works recording the exploits of aviators beginning with man's first powered flight at Kitty Hawk portrayed on canvas by Harvey Kidder.

Artists were flown to all parts of the world to record on canvas the contemporary life of the United States Air Force.

Their impressions of what they saw and felt including Keith Ferris' "Jet Age Refueling" will be on display at BYU.

donated during the past ten years. The selections in this exhibit are but a small portion of the Air Force Art collection. The entire library of Documentary Art includes over 2500 paintings and drawings some of which date back to World War I. Some of the works from this collection hung regularly in the White House, the Pentagon, at the Air Force Academy in Colorado, and the Air Force Museum at Wright-Patterson AFB, Ohio.

THE COLLECTION, begun in 1938 with some 200 paintings, has now grown to include valuable historical works recording the exploits of aviators during World Wars I and II, as well as these dramatic portrayals of the Air Force in action today.

Scenes vary from the icecap of Greenland to the jungles of Ecuador and activities range from launching a missile to entertaining Korean orphans.

AMONG THE MOST interesting and valuable works donated to the group are paintings of the Henry Farre Collection. Farre was commissioned by the French government during World War I to record the history-making accomplishments of French, British and American aviators.

During World War II Frank E. Bessford painted a group of 34 paintings and sketches depicting operations of the U.S. Air Corps in England.

Strict Timp Hike Plans Made

One of the biggest problems facing officials of the Timp Hike is that of policing and safety for the 4,000 persons expected to make the climb this year on July 30.

PAST ROWIDISM and vandalism on the part of teenagers and young adults under the influence of alcohol resulted in a decision to discontinue the Friday night program—one of the traditional highlights for many hikers. However, the central committee met two weeks ago and voted unanimously to renew the Hike program. The decision has brought with it promises from law enforcement officers and agencies that stricter enforcement of liquor laws pertaining to minors will be carried out this year and that prosecution is in store for any minor drinking and causing trouble.

EXTENSIVE PLANS have been made for security, crowd control, parking, highway safety, and general safety on the July 30 hike itself. The Utah Highway Patrol, Utah County Sheriff's Posse, Utah County Sheriff's Department, Jeep Patrol, and BYU Security Police have been assigned the problem of maintaining proper conduct.
